17 - If a person acts in good faith believing the law justifies their act (due to mistake of fact), they are not liable.

If a person acts in good faith believing the law justifies their act (due to mistake of fact), they are not liable.

- Punishment: Not punishable if belief is honest and based on mistake of fact; punishment applies only if mistake is of law.
- Cognizable: Cognizable only if the justification fails and the underlying act itself constitutes an offence.
- Bailable: Bail depends on whether the exception is upheld; if rejected, the base offence governs bailability.
- Category: General Exception
